

Sponsored Residential Services

Personalized Support in a Family Home

In this service, up to two individuals live in the home of a professional service provider and become an integrated part of the family. The Provider is supported by Wall Residences' program management professionals who create the Individual Plan for Supports and provide oversight for the service.

Privacy and Security

Individual bedrooms offer privacy with the knowledge someone is available to help when needed day or night. All needed services are coordinated by the family Provider who sees the supported individual as a whole person and is positioned to notice needs and changes more quickly and react to ensure the right support is in place.

Choice Is Key

Each person in a Wall Residences Sponsored Residential service is supported to participate in the daily schedule of a mix of home and community based activities that meet their needs and preferences. This daily schedule is created around the needs of the supported person vs the needs of a program. Shift changes, which can be disruptive, disappear. Instead, there is stability in knowing who will be there to provide support day after day.

Creating Community

The respect the community grants to a well-established family naturally extends to a person who shares their home. Plentiful opportunities to interact meaningfully in the life of the local community offers opportunities to form friendships with neighbors and other members of local organizations. Inside the home, Wall's signature matching process carefully pairs the supported individual and Provider family. This often leads to long-term placements, deep loving relationships between individuals and Provider families, and a holistic approach to caregiving.
